

Doodle Pop T-Shirts

Background:

"Vision" is a pretty heady concept for young writers, and we knew that we would need to make this work accessible to them if it was to be meaningful. Fortunately, the kids in our program were eager to create doodle pop t-shirts last summer. Indulging this desire was an engaging way to approach visioning work with them.

How We Used the Work Included in this Center:

We provided all writers with a Studio t-shirt, Sharpie markers, and a variety of electronic and hard copy resources that provided meaningful quotations and doodles. They selected those that best reflected their vision and added them to their shirts.

Think and Ink:

How could you adapt this activity for use in your own classroom?

How do you approach visioning work in different ways with your own students?

Please reflect and share on the Think and Ink sheet provided.
